What are your health risks?

One of the most important steps you can take is to complete your Health Risk Assessment. Your answers can give us a complete picture of your health care needs. And you can get the most from your benefits. For example, do you need any of the following?

- Details about preventive health screenings.
- Doctors with a specialty, like a heart doctor.
- Help with finances or housing.
- Support from a food bank.
- Transportation to your doctor visits.

The Health Risk Assessment is so important, you may get a letter in the mail or a call about it. If you haven't taken the Health Risk Assessment yet, call the number on the back of your ID card.

Have you been vaccinated against the flu and COVID-19?

When you get a vaccination, you're taking a step to protect yourself from an infectious disease that could lead to a hospital stay, disability, or even death. Vaccinations contain small amounts of weak or dead germs that cause diseases. They prepare your body to fight diseases to keep you from getting sick.

Flu vaccine

The flu vaccine helps to prevent serious illness for those who get the flu virus. Even though COVID-19 is the focus of news reports now, it's important to remember that people also die from the flu. In the 2018-2019 flu season, 34,200 Americans died from the flu.

Early fall is the best time to receive the flu vaccine, before flu viruses start to spread. The vaccine takes about 2 weeks to begin working. Immunity goes away over time, and flu viruses are always changing. That's why it's important to be vaccinated every year.

Flu vaccinations are covered by your Highmark Health Options benefits. Schedule a flu vaccination at your doctor's office or local pharmacy.

COVID vaccine

The COVID vaccine is safe and effective. The vaccine helps prevent getting COVID-19 and serious illness for those who do get it. COVID-19 vaccinations and boosters are free and available at most pharmacies. Your doctor's office may also provide the vaccination.

Go online to learn more about the COVID-19 vaccine for people age 5 and older.

How can a Care Manager help you?

If you think a Care Manager can help you, call Care Management at 1-844-325-6251.

Checkups and preventive care help children stay well.

A child's good health starts with regular checkups. These checkups include vaccinations and preventive screenings based on age, sex, and medical history. Checkups, vaccinations, and screenings are the focus of the Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnostic, and Treatment (EPSDT) program.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and American Academy of Pediatrics recommend these schedules for vaccinations:

Birth to age 6

Age 7 and older

The EPSDT team is here to remind you when your child is scheduled for a checkup or needs preventive care. At any time, you can call Member Services at 1-844-325-6251 and ask for a member of the EPSDT team to help with your child's care. We can make an appointment, find a specialist, arrange transportation, and connect you with helpful community resources.

Is your child at risk for lead poisoning?

Lead poisoning happens when lead gets into the bloodstream. Children under age 6 are especially likely to get lead poisoning. This is a concern, because even low levels of lead in the blood affect a child's IQ, academic achievement, and ability to pay attention. The way to learn if your child has been exposed to lead is to have a blood test. To find lead poisoning, have your child's blood tested by age 1 and again at age 2. If the level of lead found in the blood is not normal, there are steps your child's doctor may take. Highmark Health Options covers blood tests to check a child's blood lead level.

Symptoms

These are some signs of lead poisoning you may see:

- Confusion
- Constipation
- Hair loss
- Headaches
- Loss of energy
- Muscle weakness
- Poor appetite
- Seizures or convulsions
- Stomachache
- Vomiting

Sources of lead

A child can be exposed to lead through:

- Paint and dust in homes built before 1978.
- Soil that contains traces of lead.
- Toys, jewelry, and makeup.
- Water that runs through lead pipes.

Note: You cannot see, taste, or smell lead in drinking water.

Prevention

To prevent lead poisoning:

- Clean windowsills and floors regularly.
- Have your home tested for lead paint, especially if it was built before 1978. Don't renovate before testing.
- Keep your child away from peeling paint or chewable surfaces painted with lead-based paint.
- Let water run for a few minutes before using it.
- Remove your shoes before entering your home.
- Store food in glass, plastic, or stainless-steel containers.
- Wash your child's hands, face, and toys regularly.

Lead is dangerous for expecting moms.

If you're pregnant and have above-normal levels of lead:

- You are at risk for miscarriage.
- Your baby may be born too early or too small.
- Your baby's brain, kidneys, and nervous system may be affected.
- Your baby may have learning or behavior problems.

Find more information on the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) website.

Find safe, private space for online health care at the library.

If you need to use the internet to have an online health care visit, your local library may be able to help. High-speed internet access for online health visits is now available at the Seaford, Milford, and Laurel libraries. Please check with your local library to make an appointment.

You can have your appointment in a private, soundproof kiosk for medical or mental health visits. The kiosks are wheelchair accessible and can accommodate two or three people.

Expecting a baby? Join the MOM Options program.

The MOM Options program provides education and support to help you have a healthy pregnancy. When we know you're pregnant, we'll send you a brochure about the program. If you take the brochure to every prenatal care visit for your health care provider to sign, you can earn a valuable item for you and your baby to use. If you are a Highmark Health Options member throughout your pregnancy and attend every prenatal visit, you can select one of the following:

- Infant/toddler car seat
- Baby stroller
- Pack 'n Play kit (playpen)
- Baby Shower in a Box

When you've completed all visits and have all signatures, return the brochure to us. And we'll send you the item you chose from the list above. Call 1-855-325-6251 for more information.

For new moms: Delivery of free food, diapers, and wipes.

If you recently gave birth, you may be eligible for the new Postpartum Food Box program. Free food boxes will be delivered to your door weekly for up to eight weeks. To participate, you must sign up before your eighth week after delivery. This means before your child turns 2 months old. Sign up as early as possible to get the most benefit. Also note that someone must be at home to receive the delivery and confirm the new mom's date of birth.

Highmark Health Options partnered with the State of Delaware, ModivCare transportation service, and the Food Bank of Delaware to create this service. Each box contains:

- Nonperishable food items, such as rice, canned fruits and vegetables, and more:
 - Option 1 contains cereal, peanut butter, canned chicken, split peas, mac and cheese, pasta, and spaghetti sauce.
 - Option 2 contains oatmeal, red beans and rice, tuna, egg noodles, mashed potatoes, and beef stew.
- Diapers: Size 1 diapers, as available.
- Wipes: One standard pack of wipes, as available.

Do you take medicine for a long-term condition?

If you do, check out this benefit. You may be able to get a 90-day supply of your medicine instead of a 30-day supply. This means you only need to refill your prescription four times a year.

Talk to your doctor about a 90-day supply.

The medicines covered by this benefit treat ongoing conditions like asthma, depression, high cholesterol, high blood pressure, and more. Covered medicines are listed on the next page. The list includes brand and generic names. Look on your prescription bottle for either the brand or generic name.

If you take one of these medicines, ask your doctor if a 90-day prescription is right for you. If so, your doctor can write the prescription for 90 days. And you can pick up your medicine at your local pharmacy.

Do you have chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD)?

Living with COPD can be hard. These tips can help.

Follow medical advice:

- Take breathing medicines as your doctor ordered. Let your doctor know of side effects or if you need help using your inhaler.
- Don't stop taking medicine on your own.
- Make sure you use oxygen if your doctor ordered it for you.
- Get a yearly flu vaccination and ask if you need a pneumonia vaccination.
- If you need to go to the hospital for COPD, be sure to see your doctor within two weeks of leaving the hospital.

Take care of your general health:

- Don't smoke and avoid secondhand smoke. Get help to quit smoking.
- Take good care of your mouth.
- Exercise your lungs. Ask your doctor how.
- Walk every day. Take short walks and walk more each time.

Protect your health during cold and flu season:

- Wash your hands often and use hand sanitizer.
- Avoid crowds during cold and flu season.
- Ask family and friends to visit only when they are healthy.

For help, sign up for the COPD Lifestyle Management Program or call Care Management at 1-844-325-6251. A Care Manager can help you learn how to manage your COPD symptoms so you can be more active and enjoy life.

COPD and COVID-19

COVID-19 is a virus that affects the lungs. If you have COPD, you do not have a higher risk of getting COVID-19. But if you do get the virus, you may get other serious health issues along with the virus. The vaccine can help protect you from severe COPD complications. Talk to your doctor about the COVID-19 vaccine.

If you have COPD, the following could be signs of a COVID-19 infection:

- Changes in your mucus color or amount
- Coughing more
- Different or new types of coughing
- Low blood oxygen level
- More problems with your breathing
- Using your oxygen more
- Using your rescue inhaler more
- Wheezing more often

If you're worried that you may have COVID-19, stay home and call your doctor. Your doctor will ask you to describe your symptoms over the phone. Your doctor may also ask if you have traveled recently or had close contact with someone who tested positive for COVID-19.

Your doctor will give you the best advice about what to do, based on your symptoms and medical history. Seek emergency medical treatment if you develop severe symptoms.

Is it COVID-19 or heart symptoms?

If you have tested positive for COVID-19, ongoing problems related to the virus can complicate your recovery. You may experience chest pain, irregular heartbeat, shortness of breath, and dizziness. These symptoms can also be caused by heart conditions. If you have had COVID-19 and have heart problems, it may be hard to tell which one is causing your symptoms.

The chart below can help you better understand what to do if you have certain symptoms. Seek emergency medical treatment if you develop severe symptoms.

Symptom	When to call a doctor	When to call 911
Shortness of breath	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Worse when lying down• Worse with activity• Along with weakness or ankle swelling	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Bluish lips or face• Oxygen saturation reading under 92%• Sudden shortness of breath
Chest pain	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• New chest pain that goes away in 15 minutes (otherwise call 911)• New chest pain with activity that goes away with rest• Ongoing pain that is not severe• Pain happens more often	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Severe chest pain along with nausea, shortness of breath, lightheadedness, or sweating• Sudden chest pain, especially with shortness of breath lasting more than five minutes

Plan ahead: Get the most from your health care visit.

Health care visits give you the chance to share information and ask questions. Some things you'll talk about with your health care provider are your symptoms, medical tests, and treatment for any conditions you may have. Working well with your provider can help you stay healthy.

Invite a support person.

It's always a good idea to have a support person with you at your visit, if you can. The person can help you remember what was discussed during your visit.

Make a list of questions.

Never hesitate to ask your health care provider questions. Before your visit, write down a list of questions and a list of symptoms. Put the most important questions at the top.

Make a list of symptoms.

Start with the most concerning:

- Physical: pain, fever, a lump, change in energy, trouble sleeping, unexplained weight loss
- Feelings: confusion, ongoing sadness

Ask about medical tests.

Sometimes health care providers want to do tests, like blood tests or X-rays, to find out more about a health problem. These are questions you can ask before a test:

- What will the test tell us?
- What does the test involve?
- How should I get ready?
- Are there any dangers or side effects?

Ask about your condition.

After your visit and testing, your provider will tell you what was found. If you are diagnosed with a condition, these are good questions to ask:

- What may have caused this condition?
- How long will it last? Is it permanent?
- How will this affect me?
- How do we treat or manage this condition?
- What are my treatment choices?
- What are the risks and benefits?

Together, you and your provider can decide what treatment is best for you based on your values, beliefs, and circumstances.

Get ready for a virtual visit.

For virtual visits, have the following information ready to share with your provider: weight, temperature, blood pressure, and pulse. You can take your blood pressure and pulse readings on equipment at a local pharmacy.

Will your wishes be honored if you can't speak for yourself?

If you are admitted to the hospital, you will be asked if you have an advance directive. An advance directive gives you the chance to state what kind of medical care you want before medical care is needed. An advance directive is followed only when you are not able to say what medical care you want.

There are two kinds of advance directives. One is called a living will. It spells out what kind of life support you want if you are in a terminal condition or coma. The other is power of attorney for health care. You can use it to appoint someone to make health care choices for you when you are unable to make your own choices. The power of attorney is used if you cannot make and tell people your choices.

Talk to your doctor about an advance directive and ask to have yours filed in your medical record. Delaware Health and Social Services (DHSS) has an advance directive form you can fill out. To make this form legal, you must have two people witness you signing the form. It is suggested but not required that you have a notary public witness you signing the form.

You can also request the form through Member Services at 1-844-325-6251.

Women's health: Are you due for a health screening?

Schedule screenings for breast cancer and cervical cancer.

Screenings are a covered benefit for Highmark Health Options members. Talk with your doctor about breast and cervical cancer screenings.

Free screenings along with transportation assistance are available through the Delaware Breast Cancer Coalition Women's Health Screening Program. Call 1-888-672-9647 to schedule.

Breast cancer

Breast cancer is the most common type of cancer in the United States. It is the fourth leading cause of cancer deaths. One in eight American women will be diagnosed with breast cancer. If you're age 50 and older, get screened. Your doctor may recommend screenings earlier if you are at high risk for breast cancer.

Cervical cancer

Cervical cancer can often be found early and sometimes even prevented with routine Pap tests. When it is detected early, cervical cancer can be one of the most successfully treated cancers. Women ages 21–29 should have a Pap test every three years. Women ages 30–65 should have a Pap test along with an HPV test every five years. An HPV test checks for a virus that can lead to cervical cancer.

Members surveyed about their health care experience.

Earlier this year, Highmark Health Options members were selected at random and surveyed about their health care experience. The survey is called the 2021 Consumer Assessment of Healthcare Providers and Systems (CAHPS). Members who responded to the survey told us what we were doing well and where we can improve.

Members who filled out the survey said:

- Customer service staff treat them with courtesy and respect.
- Doctors take time to explain things and answer questions.
- They are satisfied with their overall health care.
- They are satisfied with their ability to receive specialist care.
- They are satisfied with how doctors:
 - Show courtesy and respect.
 - Inform them about their care.
 - Listen carefully.

Members who filled out the survey also mentioned areas for improvement that we are working on. These include:

- Receiving urgent care.
- Spending enough time with their doctor.

Diabetes Prevention Program promotes healthy living.

Follow these tips when you get home from the hospital.

- If you will need a ride to your doctor visit, reserve one in advance. Call your Care Coordinator or Member Services.

Before your follow-up doctor visit:

- Write down the questions you want to ask. Put the most important ones at the top.
